Question: Just in case you needed a reference point, I am going to draw out the questions I have raised before any of you start answering. And, yes, I know about the civil war and the signing of the Emancipation Proclamation but the Democrats were never going to be forgiving of Republicans, not for this or anything else. If the Emancipation Proclamation was declared by Lincoln and the Democrats were pushing the blood of the slaves into the river and refusing to come back, did you really think that it wasn't going to be a devastating blow to the Democrats? And, as long as Lincoln was president, it was going to remain a devastating blow. Lincoln won't nominate any important persidency, and thus, no Democrats for the Supreme Court for the rest of the lifetime of his presidency, and thus, no Democrats will be president from 1881 to 1913, making it 12 years that Lincoln will control the presidency and the Supreme Court for the rest of the United Service Pack 2.
